Panel: What is the Role of the Bible in Quaker Religious Education?

There are many ways to teach the Bible in a Quaker context. We will come together to share ideas and ask questions of each other. What best describes the approaches you have used?

_____ I don't teach the Bible.

_____ I only teach specific parts of the Bible.

_____ I teach the Bible as cultural and historic literature.

_____ I teach the Bible as God's evolving relationship with us and our evolving understanding of God.

_____ I teach the Bible as divine guidance.

_____ Other - please describe: _____

_____ I would be willing to be on a panel on teaching the Bible. We will contact you to confirm this.

Emerging Work:

We will share about the emerging work we do on Friday evening. Are you interested in sharing something about the Quaker religious education work that you do? If so, please briefly describe the program or initiative below. We will contact you to confirm this.

The emerging work that you would like to present is:

Workshops:

Are you interested in sharing your gifts with others through giving a workshop on Saturday? If so, we ask you to please suggest a workshop by providing a title and description below. We will contact you to confirm your workshop. Workshops will last 75 minutes. Handouts and takeaways are to be provided by the leader.

Workshops might include, interactive activities, movement, small group work, hands-on participation, sharing of skills and experience and at least one new tool or knowledge base that can be practiced upon returning home.
